

SAT CLASS ENROLLMENT AGREEMENT

Here is how the course works:

Students are expected to attend all scheduled sessions (practice tests and classes), and they are expected to complete all assigned homework. The course is as close to a shortcut to better SAT scores as students can get; there are no shortcuts to the course. Getting great test scores required commitment on the part of both teacher and student.

The materials are valuable:

By enrolling in this course, you agree that you are studying with The Princeton Review solely for the purpose of preparing for the SAT. All techniques and course content are the property of The Princeton Review. You agree not to distribute any information, whether presented orally or in writing, or any of the materials from The Princeton Review to any third party without prior written consent of The Princeton Review.

In signing this agreement, I agree to participate fully in the course.

Student's signature: _____

Student's name (Please print): _____

Parent's signature: _____

Date: _____

School Name: _____

Course to prepare for the:

March 2010 Test

Fax completed forms to Megan Moncure at 314-872-9128.